

Today's House vote on eminent domain is disastrous for job creation and economic development in Mississippi. In the debate on the House floor, it was said job creation is not the Legislature's job. Well, the House vote today is certainly a vote against job creation.

If House Bill 803 had been the law then, Nissan, Toyota and many other major employers would not have located in Mississippi.

I urge the Senate to vote for jobs and to sustain my veto on House Bill 803.
